

The Night Sky

By Kimberly H. Hutmacher

DISCUSS

Talk through your thoughts.

- With an adult, spend time talking about your day but go outside under the night sky.
- Talk about what you know about the night sky. Try watching the sky every evening for a week with an adult.

CREATE

Make an experience of your own.

- Using objects around your home, create the night sky including the Earth, Sun and planets. Be creative – use pillows, balls, socks! Teach someone younger about the night sky.
- Make a matching memory game with the bold vocabulary words in the book. Play the game with a friend.

IMAGINE

Use your imagination to explore.

- Explore the constellations. Use the star chart on page 18 to help you find these pictures in the sky.
- With adult permission, visit www.nasa.gov and learn more about current events in space.
